I have specialised in the investigation and handling of liability claims for over 30 years, previously working for specialist divisions of two global loss adjusting practices, before establishing Forensic Adjusting in 2022.

I have a wide range of experience across all classes of liability claims and have been responsible for the investigation and handling of several high-profile incidents, including the Potters Bar rail crash in 2002, the M5 motorway crash in 2011 and two separate UK Zookeeper fatalities.

I have considerable proficiency in dealing with medical malpractice/treatment risk claims, industrial risks, the leisure industry, firework and events, liability risks in the equine sector and both EL/PL Covid-19 cases.
